A two-player match book sample

The match agreement

One of you takes X. The other takes O. Whoever holds the book gets to choose the square.

The winner may announce the line at full volume. The other player has first claim on a rematch.

Pick, turn, pass

Look for the player named on the panel. That player picks any empty square. Follow its page number and panel letter. Your turn adds one mark. Then hand the book over.

Find your mark

The next board can face a different way. Its columns read A, B, C from left to right. Its rows read 1, 2, 3 from top to bottom. “at C1” puts your new mark at the top right.

90° CW means the position turned a quarter turn clockwise. 90° CCW means counterclockwise. 180° is a half turn. Keep the book upright and play from the new board. A winning line gets the name it has on the ending panel.

Three in a row across, down or diagonally wins. A full board with no winning line is a draw.

This match opens with X at A1, C2 and B3. O holds B1 and B2. O to play.

Start at panel 3A.
